

NEW YORK.
At the Washington

Term Down.—On application of several owners of outside booths at Washington market to-day the Supreme Court issued an ex parte order to the Mayor, Board of Health and other health authorities for them to show cause why an injunction should not be issued restraining them from removing the booths. Subsequently the court ordered the Mayor and health officers for the city and the health booth owners into court and moved that the order be vacated.

Judge Pratt, on considering the matter, allowed the order to show cause to stand, but vacated the stay, thus permitting the destruction of the booths. The court also denied the application for the writ of habeas corpus, thus denying the final decision of the suit.

RATES OF INSURANCE.—The board of directors of the Fire Insurance Association have resolved to raise the rate of insurance on all buildings with Mansard roofs, and invite all insurance
